1. Educate. Learn about girls' access to education by earning your Global Action Award. Host a movie night and screen He Named Me Malala, then facilitate a discussion. Or hold a book club to read and discuss one of the following editions of Malala's book: I Am Malala: The Girl Who Stood Up for Education and Was Shot by the Taliban (2013) or I Am Malala: How One Girl Stood Up for Education and Changed the World (Young Readers Edition, 2014).

In 400 words or less, tell us how you earned your Global Action Award. Please include the following: What event option did you choose? Why? When did you host it? Who did you invite and include? What was the response of your event participants? What did you learn about Malala that inspired you to act?

2. Act. Address a root cause of an issue impacting girls' access to education locally, nationally or globally. Please respond to the following questions and attach a letter or statement from a non-related adult, project advisor or partnering organization confirming your project's completion.

Start date: Completion date: Hours:

In 400 words or less, please summarize what your project was about. Describe the root cause you identified for an issue impacting girls' access to education locally, nationally or globally. Tell us why you chose the project, the issues you addressed, who your target audience was, and your project's outcome.

In 400 words or less, please describe how your project had measurable and sustainable impact. Talk about the people impacted by your project, as well as the project's sustainability and the likelihood of it continuing beyond the current time frame. Please provide proof of your impact, such as numbers, data, evaluations, feedback and photographs.

In 400 words or less, please reflect on your project experience. What was the most successful part? What would you change or do differently if you could start over? What did you learn about yourself? What did you learn about the issue you addressed?

Please submit a video of no longer than two minutes. The video should be casual, fun and all about you and the impact you made! Be sure to include a brief overview of your project, your inspiration, the impact you made and why you should receive the Students Stand #withMalala Scholarship.

Video submission guidelines: Upload your video to Vimeo, YouTube or a file sharing site (such as Dropbox) and give us a link to it (make sure it is not set to private!). The video can be made using any recording device, including a cellphone, tablet or digital camera. Be sure the video is clear in appearance and sound, and that there are no visible or audible background distractions. If your video is recorded on a cell phone, please be sure the phone is held horizontally, as this captures a higher quality video.
