Girl Scouts for grades 6-12

.....
You might start off in Girl Scouts as a kid, but you leave as a leader. Here are some ways that Girl Scouts helps girls spark change in their communities, discover lifelong talents and passions, serve as role models for younger girls and embark on unforgettable adventures with new friends.
.....

EXPLORE CAREERS

#LearnByDoing

Girl Scouts gets girls out of the classroom and into hands-on learning experiences. Try out robotics, run your own business, build a website, learn first aid, practice archery—you decide what you explore.

BECOME A MENTOR

#InspireYoungerGirls

Older Girl Scouts get to lead younger Girl Scouts and serve as teachers and role models. They can teach workshops and classes, assist staff and volunteers, help run events, or support a multi-level troop.

EFFECT SOCIAL CHANGE

#ServeYourCommunity

Girl Scouts earn their Silver and Gold Awards by designing and leading community service projects that help the needy, save the environment, inspire kids, or influence real-life policies and laws.

PREPARE FOR COLLEGE

#StandOutFromTheCrowd

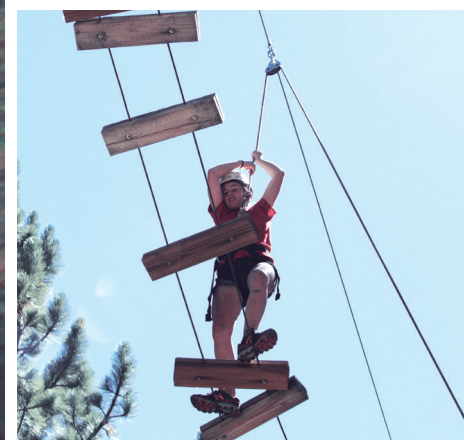

College admissions officers have stated that the leadership experiences, community service hours, and skills that girls gain through Girl Scouts give them a cutting edge on college applications.

TRAVEL

#DiscoverTheWorld

Girl Scout travel opportunities let girls see new places, meet new people, and learn about different cultures and ideas. These experiences give girls major insight into themselves and the world around them.

DEFY YOUR LIMITS

#TakeOnChallenges

Girl Scouts pushes girls to try new things, face their fears, and discover what they are capable of. Whether it's rock climbing, public speaking, or starting an anti-bullying campaign, girls learn to be fearless.
