

There are several ways girls and adults can be a part of Girl Scouting!
Find the one that best fits you!

Camp Pathway

The camp pathway is for girls who are most interested in summer camp. Girls participate in the outdoors, focus on environmental education, discover the arts and more. Our camp locations feature a variety of activities including horseback riding, climbing walls, archery and swimming. Resident camp, where campers reside at the site for the duration of two or more days, features exciting activities, too. Weekend camp includes themed camps, troop camp, horse camp and camporees.

Events Pathway and Series Pathway

The events pathway invites girls to participate in Girl Scouts of Greater Los Angeles (GSGLA) signature events or themed events. The Series Pathway allows girls to work on a badge or focus on an area of interest for a defined period of time. Event and series activities are thematic in nature and developed to support the council's program areas: Leadership; Arts & Culture; Business Smarts; Environment & Outdoor Education; Science, Technology, Engineering, Math (STEM); and Wellness & Healthy Living.

Travel Pathway

Travel pathway programs offer girls the opportunity to participate in leadership and cross-cultural opportunities through regional, national and international travel. Girl Scout destinations is an activity for girls ages 11-17 that offers a special category of travel experiences with Girl Scouts from across the country.

Troop Pathway

The troop pathway is the most traditional pathway of Girl Scouts and allows girls an opportunity to spend time and work together with other girls in the same age group, in partnership with volunteer adult advisors (called troop leaders). Girl planning, in partnership with adult volunteers, helps to develop a team relationship, making space for the development of leadership skills and allowing girls to benefit from the guidance, mentoring and the coaching of caring adults.

Virtual Pathway

The virtual pathway gives girls the opportunity to participate in web-based activities in a safe online environment. It offers an opportunity to connect with girls in different communities – regionally, nationally and internationally! The virtual pathway is a great resource for those who may be hindered by their geographic location. The virtual pathway is in development.
