TIFFINY DIXON, renowned style coach and one of the stars from Lifetime's "Girlfriend Intervention" will be hosting this fantastic workshop with her assistant, which teaches girls all about finding their own personal style, how fashion can lead to empowerment and be used as a catalyst to follow your dreams!

When she's not busy lending her voice, image and likeness as a face of Proctor & Gamble's "My Black is Beautiful" national ad campaign to bolster self-esteem and celebrate women, you can find her working diligently on a local level to continue the movement to empower women and girls through style & grace.

In 2007 Tiffany E. Dixon seamlessly merged sophistication and fun, founding ME Optimized (MEO).

Prior to making the entrepreneur leap, Dixon worked in the Financial Industry at Citigroup and Goldman Sachs as an analyst /project manager. In 2004 Dixon served as a press intern for the (then NYC Senator) Hillary Rodham Clinton.

This session is conducted like a NYC-style fashion trunk show!
